

Bench Person

MK Wood Works is expanding our shop facility and is looking for an experienced bench worker to join our team.

We fabricate custom cabinetry, architectural millwork, and specialty woodwork for residential projects throughout New England. This position is primarily focused on bench work, fabrication, milling, and assembly within our shop.

We are looking for someone who takes pride in producing high-quality work, can work independently from shop drawings, and understands the importance of accuracy, organization, and communication.

Responsibilities

- Fabricate custom cabinetry, architectural millwork, and specialty woodwork
- Read and work from shop drawings, blueprints, and project plans
- Mill, join, assemble, and prepare wood components
- Safely and confidently operate woodworking machinery and hand tools
- Coordinate with the Shop Foreman and Project Managers regarding production progress and scheduled completion dates
- Inspect work throughout fabrication and help maintain MK Wood Works' quality standards
- Help maintain shop equipment and follow established service schedules
- Keep individual work areas and the overall shop clean, safe, and organized
- Safely handle raw materials, completed cabinetry, and other heavy components

Qualifications

The ideal candidate will have experience in custom cabinetry, architectural millwork, or a related woodworking trade.

Candidates should be able to:

- Read and understand shop drawings and construction plans
- Work accurately with both machinery and hand tools
- Complete detailed fabrication and assembly work with limited supervision
- Communicate clearly about progress, questions, and potential problems
- Work productively as part of a coordinated shop team
- Safely lift and handle materials associated with cabinetry and millwork fabrication
